From the Westminster Journal, October 21, 1749.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

THE state of affairs at the Porte, since the account of them given in our last, are thus represented in the letters from Constantinople.

The count Desalleurs, ambassador from France, continues to have frequent conferences with the grand Vizir, and other ministers of the Porte. As yet his excellency has received no orders from his court relating to the Bashaw of Rhodes, who is detained at Malta for being the author of, or an accomplice in, the conspiracy against the grand master and knights of that order: However, it is not doubted but he will soon hear from his court on this head; and the Ottoman ministers already flatter themselves that the dispatches will be favourable.

Since the deposing the Musti, and some other ministers of his party, they perceive no more factions at the Porte. The grand Vizir, who is still in high favour with the grand Signor, no longer meets with any opposition to his designs, all the great officers actually in place being his creatures. This prime minister is of a pacific temper, as 'tis given out, and will avoid a war as long as he possibly can: But, on the other hand, 'tis feared that he will be obliged to give way to the humour of the Janizaries, who by all their actions discover themselves strongly bent on a rupture, with one or other of their Christian neighbours.

The news received at Constantinople, by the way of Erzerum, of the total defeat of Ibrahim Kan in Persia, has occasioned the holding of many divans. This Ibrahim was master of the city of Tauris, and of the whole province of Adelbetizan, where he had assembled his numerous army of upwards of 100,000 men, with which he march'd in order to give battle to that of the Shah, who gain'd a compleat victory over him. The conquering Shah has since disposed of the government of Tauris in favour of Koulkan Kan, and we learn that he is advancing to Cashin, in order to be there crowned with great pomp and solemnity.

As to the affairs of the North, which have so much engaged our attention for a twelvemonth past, some critical turn in them seems to be now not far distant. We before mentioned the declaration made by the Russian court at Stockholm, and the answer returned to it by the Swedish ministry.

Letters from Stockholm, now assure us, that the old Swedish monarch, notwithstanding his pacific declarations, is not a little nettled at the contents of the late declaration made by the Russian minister there; his majesty judging, that the empress of Russia might or ought to have been satisfied with the declaration made by him and the prince successor the 22d of July last; so that it seems very doubtful whether the Swedish court will give any instrument more binding, or better security, than the declarations already made to remove the fears of those who imagine that an alteration is intended in the form of government in that kingdom. In this opinion the Swedes are confirmed since the holding of an extraordinary council, the result of which has been communicated to the ministers of the powers in friendship and alliance with Sweden, and contains in substance, "that this court will continue to do all that lies in her power to prevent a war in the North; but that care will be taken, at the same time, not to derogate in the least from the rights and independency which Sweden, as a sovereign state, ought to enjoy, and is resolved to enjoy."

They write from Berlin, that a conference has been held at Potsdam on the affairs of Sweden, the result of which has been sent by a courier to Stockholm: And that there is a talk of assembling some regiments next year in Pomerania, with a view, no doubt, to the said affairs. Sweden hath also received assurances from the court of France, that whenever Russia puts her late declaration in execution, his most Christian majesty will perform the engagements he contracted in 1747.

Algiers, Sept. 19. The corsair Agi Mosti, after having sail'd over the coasts of Sicily, Naples, and all Italy, France, and a great part of Spain, return'd on the 10th instant into this port, having taken a small Genoese vessel, and another of Corsica, freighted with corn and timber, and on board of which there were about 30 hands.

It is generally conjectur'd, that this small squadron, which had been equip'd at a very considerable expence, in order to go a cruzing against the Christians, has no ways answered the end proposed; and that the reward which was promised them by the Dey, will fall vastly short of their expectations.

Be that as it may, it is true, however, that they have not been able to accomplish the descent, which they proposed to make on some part of Italy, where they found their antagonists always ready to give them a very warm reception.

Stockholm, Oct. 14. A few days ago there was an extraordinary meeting of the senate, at which they took into consideration the state of the forces of this kingdom, and came to divers resolutions for augmenting the troops, in case of need, to 80,000 men, which is the number we had on foot in 1742.

Oct. 17. Our troops are in excellent order, and compleat, and levies are still making at home and in Germany, for the service of this crown; our magazines are likewise well furnished with all kinds of necessaries. As the season is already far advanced, orders have been sent down to the sea-ports, to finish as many of the gallies as possible, and launch them before the frost sets in.

Leghorn, Oct. 14. The corsairs of Algiers, Tripoli, and Tunis, continue to infest the coasts of Naples, Sicily, and other Italian states; They are very numerous, and divided into small squadrons, the better to interrupt the Christian vessels.

Petersburg, Oct. 7. The empress, our gracious sovereign, is expected very shortly in our city; and though we are overjoy'd to hear of her return, yet that joy is not absolutely perfect. When her Imperial majesty set out for Moscow, she thought proper to declare, that she should not return to this court, till the posture of affairs should be so circumstantiated, as to require her personal attendance. From that declaration, abundance of our politicians conjectur'd, that there was little or no prospect of a rupture in the North; but this sudden resolution of her Imperial majesty's return to this city, gives just grounds to others, to imagine that there will soon be a misunderstanding between this court and that of Sweden. And this opinion seems to be well-grounded; since the empress upon the representations of his Britannic majesty, that her residence for any considerable time longer at Moscow would prove very prejudicial, considering the present ticklish situation of affairs, had assured that monarch, that she was ready to remove from thence the first emergent occasion. From whence 'tis concluded, that the present time is the critical conjuncture.

Genoa, Oct. 18. The three Venetian men of war that are destin'd to cruize upon the Barbary corsairs, cast anchor a few days ago in the gulph of Spezzia, from whence, as we are assured, they will repair hither, the captains of them having some proposals to lay before the senate.

Paris, November 14. The report of marshal Lowendahl's making dispositions for a journey to Germany is far from being confirmed. We have yet great hopes that the affairs of the North will be adjusted, if the courts of Russia and Sweden can agree about renewing the treaties between them, and removing certain difficulties relating in particular to the limits on the side of Finland. The renewal of the treaty of alliance between Denmark and Sweden, confirms us in this hope.

Hague,

Hague, Nov. 16. General Lucheſi has viſited the principal members of the government. 'Tis pretended that he is come to execute a commiſſion from their Imperial majeſties, and that he will afterwards repair to the Britiſh court. It is likewiſe given out, that his commiſſion regards the Affairs of the North, and the meaſures purſued by certain Powers to preſerve peace there. The laſt letters from Vienna, and thoſe which the ſtate has received from count Bentinc, aver, that the empreſs is diſpoſed to join her good offices with thoſe of the ſaid powers, in order to attain the ſooner the end propoſed.

LONDON.

Oct. 17. There are letters which mention, that the ſect called Moravians, has been baniſhed the electorate of Saxony.

Oct. 21. We are credibly informed, that one of our Eaſt India country ſhips has been taken by the Dutch, on the coaſt of Sumatra, who cut the throats of all the crew, conſiſting of thirty ſeven men, in cold blood, excepting one, who jump'd overboard, and was ſhot at in the water, and then ſunk the ſhip.

Yeſterday came advice of the arrival off Dover, of the hon. Sir William Gooch, Bart. his majeſty's lieutenant governor of Virginia.

Letters from Paris adviſe, that the French king hath nominated M. Chavigni, his ambaſſador extraordinary to the court of Sweden; and that ſeveral regiments of horſe and foot have received orders to ho'd themſelves in readineſs to march into the duchies of Lorrain and Bar, that the ſuccours which that crown may ſtand in need of, may be ready as ſoon as the Swedes are attack'd.

Oct. 27. A grant has paſſed the great ſeal wherein his majeſty is pleaſed to re-incorporate ſingular, all the freemen of the art of Butchers of the city of London, and all others who now uſe and exerciſe the art within the ſaid city, the liberties and ſuburbs thereof, or in any place within two miles from the ſaid city; by the name of the maſter, wardens, and commonalty of the art or myſtery of Butchers of the city of London. [A very myſterious buſineſs, be ſure! that a man ſhould have ſkill enough to knock down or ſtab a poor innocent creature, that can make no defence! PRINTING was always call'd an art, or myſtery, and is eſteem'd an excellent one: But of the art, or myſtery of a Butcher, who ever read before?

Oct. 26. We hear from Manchester, that the Rev. Mr. George Whitefield, preached at St. Anne's ſquare in that town, on ſunday the 15th inſt. to a very large number of people.

The City of Dublin, capt. Joſeph Lamb, from Dublin, arrived in the river, has on board 544,780 yards of linnen, from that kingdom.

It is ſaid the parliament will purchaſe Sir Hans Sloan's collection of rarities for the benefit of the public, to prevent ſo uſeful and valuable a curioſity from falling into ill judging or incurious hands.

Letters by Yeſterday's poſt from Towceſter in Northamptonſhire adviſe, that there has been a dreadful fire there, which began on wedneſday laſt, at nine o'clock in the evening, and burnt with great fury till ſix o'clock the next morning, whereby above 30 houſes were conſumed, and great numbers of people reduced to diſtreſs.

Oct. 30. Ten waggon load of ſpecie, being above 500,000 dollars, by the Blandford from Liſbon, arrived at Portſmouth; it has ſince been carried to the India-houſe, the company having purchaſed it for exportation.

The laſt letters from Poland, draw a frightful picture of the deſolation which is cauſed in great part of that kingdom by the locuſts; which calamity, added to the multitude of troops that are quartered in thoſe parts, and have conſumed almoſt the whole remainder of their proviſion, will leave but little for the ſubſiſtance of the poor inhabitants.

Nov. 5. Several duties upon the manufacturers of France, have lately been reduced; and great care has been taken to make the neceſſaries of life as cheap as poſſible to the manufacturers; by which means they hope to render their manufactures ſo cheap, as to beat foreigners out of their market.

We hear that no workman will be admitted into his majeſty's yards for the future, under 20 years of age, or above 40.

The right honourable the lord Cathcart will ſhortly be appointed one of the lords of his majeſty's bed-chamber.

From Scotland, that great part of the coaſt, where the fiſheries are to be eſtabliſhed, is levelled, and great progreſs made in erecting buildings for undertaking.—The herring fiſhery was very ſucceſsful at Lewes all the ſhips being loaded.

Two men of war and five tranſport veſſels are ordered to be got ready for ſailing, which are deſigned for Algiers, to bring over the Chriſtians which have been for ſeveral years detained in ſlavery there.

By letters lately arrived in town by the way of Holland from admiral Boſcawen's fleet from the cape of Good Hope we are informed, that they ſhould ſail from thence in January next, and hoped to reach England in May; and that a great number of men had ſuffered by the flux, occaſioned by drinking too plentifully of the wines at the cape.

No advice having been received of the recovery of fort St. George, a meſſenger was therefore diſpatched on Tueſday to France on that ſubject.

From Madrid they write, that all the frigates, bilanders and other veſſels, fitted out in the ports of Spain, have received orders to be in readineſs to put to ſea on the firſt notice; but the court have not yet declared the deſtination of theſe ſhips.

We hear that a ſloop of war is ordered to be man'd and victualled at Portſmouth, in order to ſail with all expedition to the Weſt Indies, with inſtructions to the ſeveral governors.

Capt. Campbell, we hear, ſails ſoon for Gibraltar, with ſix men of war to join commodore Keppel's ſquadron.

Thurſday it was reported that two Dutch ſhips, bound to Liſbon from Hamburgh, were taken a few leagues diſtance from Oporto, by the Algerines.

Nov. 4. Letters from Amſterdam mention, that the plague was broke out on the frontiers of Poland, and had carried off great numbers of people.

Letters from Marſeilles confirm the accounts we have received of the plague's raging violently in the Levant, ſo that ſeveral veſſels which have been freighted for thoſe ports, have been unloaded, and are beginning to take other cargoes on board for the Baltic.

Some of the large men of war in Portſmouth harbour are ordered to be got in readineſs for ſailing, &c.

Orders are given by the lords commiſſioners for trade and plantations, to employ ſome tranſports for conveying bullocks and ſtores, &c. to Nova Scotia.

From the day that ſome Spaniſh veſſels entred the harbour of Algiers und r Dutch colours to examine the ſoundings, a reſolution was taken by the regency to ſend an ambaſſador with magnificent preſents to England, to make ſatisfaction for the inſults of the prince Frederick, and to implore the good offices of the king of Great Britain to induce his Catholic majeſty to lay aſide his hoſtile deſigns upon that place.

A meſſenger is diſpatched to Spain, on account of ſome officers lately gone thither.

There is advice that a Barbary rover, with 110 men on board, was loſt in the Streights, and all the people on board periſhed.

Nov. 6. We are aſſured, that the hon. Sr. Edward Hawke kut. whoſe conduct in a former affair was greatly applauded, is conſtituted preſident of the court martial which is ſhortly to ſit for the tryal of ſome Officers and Mariners.

Nov. 7. According to letters from Vienna the court have lately received divers expreſſes from diffeſent parts, and ſeveral councils have been held on the contents of their diſpatches which are kept very ſecret: but it is obſerved, that orders have ſince been iſſued for remounting the cavalry, and compleating all the regiments, both horſe and foot, as ſoon as poſſible.

They write from Berlin, that his Pruſſian majeſty, has ordered ſeveral regiments to form a camp towards the frontiers of his dominions; but on what ſide, whether on the frontiers of Sileſia, or towards Courland, they don't inform us: As the reaſon they aſſign for this encampment is, to enure the troops to cold weather; which it certainly will do, whether there be any thing more intended by it.

We hear from Dreſden, that couriers frequently arrive from Vienna, and that ſeveral councils have been called on the ſubject of their diſpatches: They add, that the court of Vienna has reinforced her troops in Moravia with twelve ſquadrons and four regiments of infantry, upon the receipt of ſome intelligence from Berlin.

The laſt letters from Madrid adviſe, that the intent of Mr. Keene's making a tour to London, is to give by word of mouth certain eclairciſſements in relation to the negociation he is charged with, which is chiefly retarded by the arts of the Guipuſcoa company; and that this miniſter will be thereupon furniſhed with ſuch inſtructions as the court of Spain will be very far from rejecting.

We are aſſured that a late expreſs from France entreats the court to join with them in a mediation between Sweden and Ruſſia.

An eminent Factor in the woollen manufacture, near the Royal exchange, was taken into cuſtody by one of his majeſty's meſſengers, for being a principal in the clandeſtine ſending of artificers and utenſils for the woollen manufacture to Spain, contrary to an act of parliament in the 3d year of queen Elizabeth; whereby it is enacted, that eight artificers, or any number above, departing the kingdom at any one time, ſhall be deem'd guilty of felony, and puniſh'd as ſuch. Some others were taken into cuſtody on the ſame account; and we are aſſured, that advice has been receiv'd of the ſafe arrival of a ſhip in Spain, having on board about 60 artificers in the woollen manufacture, and that a great number of Callimancoes and Worſted Damaſks half finiſh'd were arrived, and a great quantity of utenſils belonging to that valuable branch of trade.

The perſons taken into cuſtody on account of the woollen manufacture, were examined, and two perſons who had been articled, but refuſed to go, were examined againſt them; upon which, the matter being fully proved, they were ordered into cloſer confinement.

A meſſenger was diſpatch'd a few days ago, to Barbant, to ſolicit the delivery up of one Bevan, formerly an eminent clothier in Wiltſhire, and principal in tranſporting the artificers, &c. in the woollen manufacture to Spain, who upon the bringing back of the ſhip eſcaped thither.

Several perſons concerned in tranſporting the woollen manufactures to Spain, were re examined, when two of them were admitted to bail, but the principal perſons were ordered to be continued in cloſe cuſtody. At the ſame time a perſon concerned in the above tranſaction, and who had been ſome time upon bail, was ordered into cloſe cuſtody of a meſſenger.
